

The Sustainable Environment Institute of the District Academic Senate at the LACCD presents:

August 18, 2022: 11am-1230pm
An online conversation about:

HEAT

The conversation involves interviews with two experts:

- Jason Finley, faculty meteorologist, LA Pierce College
- Marta Segura, Chief Heat Officer, City of Los Angeles

The Zoom Link is here

Urban heat is now very pronounced in many cities globally and results in medical emergencies, stroke, and death. Our experts will help us understand the role of climate change in creating the weather problem and the ways a metro area like LA is organized to deal with it.

Hosted by Dr. George Leddy, co-director of the Sustainable Environment Institute of the LACCD

LACCD Faculty receive Flex credit as part of professional development in the District. Enrolled students can receive extra credit from faculty for attending. LAUSD teachers and students are also welcome.
